

Since Internet use is required, accessing the on-line course format highlights certain rights and responsibilities for students. The following serves as a guideline for expectations of students in the online learning environment. All students must read the rules of netiquette carefully and understand their significance.

- Students are responsible for good behavior. Always use a computer in a way that shows consideration and respect.
- Obscene, profane, threatening or disrespectful language is prohibited.
- Integrity and authenticity of student work is valued. Do not cut, copy or plagiarize Internet content or the work of others and present as your own. Copying the work of others, allowing others to copy your work or misusing content from the Internet could result in removal from the course.
- Be cautious of messages from anyone. Do not share personal information, arrange a meeting with someone or engage in personal contact. Notify your learning coach if you receive communication that makes you feel uncomfortable or is inappropriate.
- E-mail, Skype, Moodle Messenger, etc. are not private. You will be held accountable for the content of your electronic communications.
- Security on any computer is a high priority. Do not share your security information with others.
- Students must use an e-mail address and user names that are appropriate for an educational environment. Addresses or user names that use profanity or may otherwise be offensive are not permitted, and an alternate address will be required.
- Protect your passwords. Keep them your secret.
- JEDI Virtual School assumes no responsibility for any phone charges, line costs or usage fees for connectivity to the Internet.
- Users are subject to all local, state and federal laws. School officials will cooperate fully with law enforcement officials in any investigation related to any illegal activities conducted through Internet access. In the event there is a claim that you have violated this policy, you will be provided with notice of the suspected violation and have an opportunity to present an explanation. Any violations may result in removal from the course as well as other disciplinary or legal action.
